

CTE in Washington, DC

45 workers are available for every 100 open jobs in the District. Career and technical education (CTE) programs can prepare students to address this shortage, particularly in key District industries, such as:

- technology and innovation
- hospitality and tourism
- higher education and healthcare
- international business

In 2023, 56% of DC high school CTE concentrators participated in an internship or apprenticeship.

Many students are already enrolled in CTE in the District, developing technical, academic and employability skills and engaging in work-based experiences with industry partners. During the 2022-23 school year, the District had:

5,019

secondary CTE participants

1,441

postsecondary CTE participants

These youth and adult learners in CTE programs are more engaged, graduate high school at higher rates, earn industry-recognized credentials, and have rewarding and family-sustaining careers.

Four-year cohort graduation rate in the District (2021-22)

1,384

sub-baccalaureate credentials in CTE fields awarded to District students (2022-23)

More investment is needed to scale CTE programs across the District to ensure that all learners have access to high-quality CTE programs in high-skill, high-wage and in-demand career fields.

FY 24 Federal Perkins CTE Funding for the District
$5,909,176

CTE: Good for Students, Good for Business, Good for Communities